Introduction

A number of traditional orthopedic homes exist in the rural areas for many with simple or complicated fractures.

These orthopedic homes are cheaper than modern orthopedic hospitals.

This is because the bone setters have passion for what they do and many are just interested in helping people

But these orthopedic homes lack space, making it difficult to admit a good number of patients at a time

Statement of problem

- Bone related injuries are common among rural dwellers
- Because of poverty, many can not afford to pay bills at orthopedic hospitals
- Traditional bone setters are the available option for many rural people
- These traditional bone setters need more space to be able to accommodate the number of patients that come to them

Solution

- We want to build 5 houses consisting of 10 rooms each.
- We have identified 5 orthopedic homes and each will get one building
- The rooms will be furnished with local beds
- Each building will be able to accommodate 30 more patients
